

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, MARCH 25.

OUR PAPER AND ITS PATRONS.

Our first number was put forth yesterday under many disadvantages, which may not be entirely removed for several days.

We hope our editorial brethren will be prompt to put us upon their exchange lists, and that the correspondents with whom we have arranged will be equally prompt in the performance of their duties.

The business public are requested to examine for themselves the advantages presented by our paper as an advertising medium. He who wants custom in any business, and does not advertise for it, can only be consistent with himself by taking down his sign-board.

Through agents abroad we have done something in the way of soliciting advertisements, but nothing in Washington. Our business people will be welcomed at our office, but it may not suit us to seek them out. For our terms, we refer to the first page. We will be guided by the scale there published.

We have found it necessary to decline some advertisements of a peculiar kind that have been presented to us, believing, as we do, that, however benevolent and honorable may be the pursuits of the proposed advertisers, they should, as far as possible, be kept from the columns of a family newspaper. We trust the persons whose favors we have declined will appreciate our motives, and take no offence.

INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITIONS.

On Saturday, the 12th of April next, a "SEMI-ANNUAL SCHOLARS' FAIR" will be held by the schools of New York. The specimens to be exhibited consist of penmanship, drawings, needlework, mechanism, minerals, and other works of nature and art, collected and prepared by the pupils for the previous six months. At a late exhibition in this system, more than half of the States in the Union were represented by school products, leading to a resolution to invite attention to the subject by American schools generally.

These occasions are pre-eminently "INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITIONS," and were introduced by Mr. Holbrook, some three years since. They are embraced in the plans and measures of Mr. H., to which the attention of the public is invited by Senators and other members of Congress, Judges and other public functionaries, whose names were given in the Telegraph of yesterday. The subject is especially interesting to the schools at in this heart of the nation.

ANECDOTES OF GREAT MEN.—We have just read in a newspaper some remarks upon the witticisms of Mr. Webster, and the example given is the reply of Mr. W. to the remark that his coat was too short: "It will be long enough before I get another." When we were a very little boy we read this anecdote in a book; but Mr. Garrison was accused of the comical response. Mr. Webster can be agreeably facetious, and his arch manner of joking will redeem a bad joke; but we have never known a good one to be ever attributed to him.

WASHINGTON, March 25, 1861.
GENTLEMEN: Let me do now what I had intended to do upon the announcement of your Prospectus—send you one dollar as an earnest of my desire that you may succeed to the fullest extent. Your paper—the American Telegraph—pleases my eye as a printer. It exhibits, in my judgment, the true elements of success—taste and tact. The good sense and liberality of the people of Washington will not permit your enterprise to languish. Very respectfully,
Messrs. CONNOLLY, WIMER & McGUIRE.

The foregoing is from a gentleman in high position under our Government—one who has had many years' experience as an editor, and whose influence, success, and merit, have been such as to render his words of commendation most welcome to our ears—not that we court praise, but that the encouragement he imparts gives strength to our hopes and energies.

HON. MR. HILLIARD.—A southern paper informs the world that the eloquence of this gentleman is beneath criticism. We have very often, in our simplicity, listened to him with great admiration, and thought we saw his adversaries in a mood in which they would have hailed as a benefactor any one who could demonstrate for them his lack of the great essentials of the orator. He is hereabout regarded as a trump, fit to play against all the knaves in the pack.

LIGHTS, BUOYS, AND BEACONS.—We learn from the foreign correspondence of the North American, that an important correspondence between the American minister at the court of St. James and Lord Palmerston, on the subject of the light-dues on shipping, has just been published, and has attracted much attention. Mr. Lawrence complains that, whilst throughout the United States lights, buoys, and beacons are maintained by our government, and no dues are levied on British shipping, American shipping cannot enter or clear out of any British port without paying heavy light-dues. In the name of "reciprocity," Mr. Lawrence claims that the British lighthouse system may be "speedily set free from so unequal and so onerous a restriction."

Lord Palmerston, in his reply to Mr. Lawrence, explains the difference in the two systems; that while the American government maintains at its own cost its own lights, buoys, and beacons, the whole system in Great Britain is maintained by corporate bodies, protected in their rights by acts of Parliament, and it would be impossible to disturb those rights. Mr. Lawrence, not satisfied with this explanation, has addressed another letter to Lord Palmerston, to which the only reply is that his "note has been referred to the proper department of her Majesty's government." There, probably, it will remain for a long period.

THE PRICE OF LABOR.—There is something very suggestive in a little fact related in the following: "The Hutchinson Family have been singing in Providence the last week to audiences of 1,500 and 2,000. They have reduced the price of admission to their concerts to 25 cents for men and half so much for women, in view of the moderate and unjust remuneration usually awarded for female labor."

A MARKET FOR PATRIOTS.

All persons who are acquainted with the particulars of the late Cuban invasion, and of the consequent legal proceedings at New Orleans, will appreciate the satire of the following, from the pen of a correspondent of the Crescent:

To the Oppressed of all Nations and Colors, except Black.

PATRIOTS FOR SALE.—The noble refusal of three successive juries to enforce the act of 1818 has rendered completely nugatory, at least in this city, that detestable and tyrannical law, which, contrary to the established usages of the world, would have extended to nations the obligation of good faith. Three thousand gentlemen, anxious to emulate the conduct of Lafayette and Kosciuszko, are ready to enlist under the banner of any people, except blacks, who may be desirous of spurning the galling bonds of despotism, and offer their services upon the following liberal terms: Colonels, $30,000; Majors, $8,000; Captains, $6,000; Privates, $3,000. The distinguished officer who was to have led the reserve guard of a late famous expedition will take command of any forces for the exceedingly moderate sum of $30,000 and the first presidency of the newly organized republic. Capitalists are prepared to advance the funds necessary to the successful execution of any feasible enterprise at the rate of ten per cent. for stock.

All the above amounts must be secured by bonds and special mortgage, importing confession of judgment upon the public domain. Private property must also be subject to execution under them, in case that of the public should not be sufficient to meet them.

Application must be made to the Ousel Owl.

LADY FRANKLIN.—Hope, it appears, will never die within her breast. We are informed by the late accounts that she will send out another Arctic expedition next season. The Prince Albert, it is stated, will again be fitted out and manned, and will proceed to Prince Regent's Inlet, where the ship will be laid up in such safe and convenient harborage as can be found. The party will then proceed in boats as far as can be reached by open water; they will cross the Isthmus of Boothia, and follow their search as far to the westward as possible. Where boats cannot be worked, "kayaks" will be used, which, with the assistance of the Esquimaux, will enable the party to proceed one hundred or two hundred miles further than boats could carry them, as the "kayaks" can be rolled up and dragged over the ice. It is proposed that the expedition shall remain out one season, and, if the state of the weather and the ice be favorable, it is expected that a very extensive search will be effected. The expedition will be under the command of Captain W. Kennedy, who has gone home from America for that purpose.

MRS. FANNY KEMBLE.—Poor woman! How great, and admirable, and beneficent would have been her influence, if educated upon the real instead of the mimic stage of life! She is a woman of superior mental powers and a heightened innate sense of honor and principle. We saw her in her dramatic glory, when the votaries of the drama were her worshippers, and we greatly admired her—yet less than when we saw her in the reverse of fortune and the hour of trial. She is now at Paris, and a writer says of her that "she has been reading Shakespeare at the Herz Home. I heard her in Macbeth. A select audience were loud in their applause. Mrs. K. looked extremely well, and declaimed with her accustomed skill."

HIGH TEMPER.—A young lady, eighteen years of age, in Alleghany county, Pa., killed her mother by a blow with a poker the other day. She didn't mean to kill her, but she might as well have meant it. Any one who could strike a mother need not be particular about skipping over other sins.

PRESIDENT-MAKING.—The Register, published at Metropolis, Ill., has the name of Millard Fillmore for President, and John J. Crittenden for Vice President, in 1852, at the head of the editorial column. We shall look on at this thing. Pictures look best when one stands off a little.

THE LATE SPEAKER.—At a dinner given to Mr. Speaker Cobb, at Macon, Ga., a few days since, he is said to have made a most admirable speech. Of course he did, if he made any speech. He is a most admirable fellow, is Mr. Speaker Cobb, and they do say he is to be "one of them" in a contest ahead.

NEW SAVANNAH AND CHARLESTON STEAMERS.—We learn from the Savannah Republican, that the new steamers to run between that place and Charleston will be ready to take their places about the first of May and the first of June. They are being constructed at New York, and it is expected that they will be able to make the distance between the two cities inside of eight hours.

RAPID LEGISLATION.—The Harrisburg (Pa.) Telegraph says that the most rapid piece of legislation ever recorded in the annals of any legislative body was the passage of the Lighthouse bill in the United States Senate. "The motion was made to take it up, and carried; it was read a first, second, and third time, and passed; sent to the House for the signature of the speaker and for the enrolment; returned to the Senate, signed by its president, and sent to the President, within the space of five minutes. The motion to take up was made five minutes before the expiration of Congress."

MEMPHIS AND CHARLESTON RAILROAD.—The Memphis Eagle states that, at the late accounts from New Orleans, Governor Jones had obtained subscriptions to the amount of $100,000 in that city to this great enterprise. Several citizens of Charleston have given assurances to Governor Jones that Charleston is ready to subscribe liberally.

A NEW KIND OF FENCE.—It is stated that Mr. John R. Remington, of Montgomery, Alabama, (the inventor of the Remington aerial bridge), has patented a new and useful invention. It is a cement for making solid fences, as durable as granite, and at a very reasonable cost of construction. The chief ingredient is sand, and it can be easily manufactured by plantation hands. The cement panels are conveyed to the spot where the fence is to be located, and the two legs of each let into the ground like common posts. The cost to the planter is estimated at ten cents per panel of ten feet by five, four inches thick—far cheaper than the wire fence.

We are sorry the right Mr. Stanley could not be indicated by the mention of some other action of his life; for that above pointed to is far from being the most creditable event in his history; not that he did not act the part of a brave man, and a man of honor, and all that sort of thing, but that a very decided mistake as to the true state of public sentiment on the subject of duelling could induce him to do what, as a citizen and a Christian man, his own conscience must have most bitterly condemned.

A BARREN SOIL.—In a cunning little paragraph, addressed to candidates for office, the Philadelphia Daily News attempts to make the dollars out of these gentlemen, by inducing them to advertise their candidacy. The attempt is praiseworthy, and the advice given very good; but it appears so funny to us here, to suppose an office-seeker capable of paying for a publication, or any thing else. Office-seekers are with us the poorest men in the world—of course always excepting office-holders.

WHICH WAY DOES THE TIDE SET?—The Whigs have elected since last Fall—one Whig U. S. Senator from Missouri; one do. from Ohio; one do. from New York.—Phila. News.

It is very irregular, Mr. News; it follows the moon.

GENERAL SCOTT.—From this time forth, says the New Bedford Mercury, we enroll ourselves among the advocates for his election to the office of President of the United States.

The Pensacola Gazette says that pumpkin pies are the "peculiar institution" of Massachusetts. They are certainly peculiarly nice—they are.

The Lincoln Courier flings a brick into a crowd of its contemporaries, in the following: "A QUEER.—Wanted to know, if a Board of Health could be saved out of the black-head of the Hornet's Nest, by the 'wind mill' of the Courier."

THE DINNER TO MR. WEBSTER.—The Annapolis paper, strange to say, was incorrect in announcing the postponement of the public dinner tendered by the Members of the Maryland Convention to the Hon. DANIEL WEBSTER. The festival is to take place this afternoon, as was first arranged, and Mr. Webster left this city for Annapolis last evening.—Int. of this morning.

A CALIFORNIAN AT WEST POINT.—It is stated in the New York Tribune that by the last mail to California, Mr. Gilbert forwarded to Adornic Vallejo, son of M. G. Vallejo, his appointment as cadet at West Point. Mr. Vallejo will have the honor of being the first representative of California in the Military Academy.

HAVANA.—Papers of the 16th say that, three persons had been arrested in Reglas, opposite Havana, for having copies of the proclamation of Gen. Lopez in their possession. They were to be sent to Spain, where they will no doubt suffer some.

MOUNT VERNON.—In a letter to the Baltimore Sun of this morning, "Ion" says: "It is said that Mr. Washington, proprietor of the Mount Vernon estate, was asked by the United States Government to purchase Mount Vernon for a Military Asylum, and that the reply was, that for two hundred acres around the mansion, he would ask two hundred thousand dollars. Mr. W. remarked that the offer of two hundred thousand dollars had been made to him by private individuals, and that, of course, he would expect the Government to pay the same."

"The place will, I fear, remain in private hands—instead of being the property, as it should be, of the American people."

THE EXILES.—We learn from the late English papers that the refugees from Shumla, arrived at Liverpool, consist of 253 Poles and 9 Hungarians. The British Government was to give each £8 to help him to America.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.—The number of British exhibitors is 6,006. The United States have only 80,000 superficial feet of space in the Crystal Palace; France has 100,000.

BORROWING A NEWSPAPER.—There was a singular trial before Justice J. L. Smith to-day. The accused, Dionysius Moggs, was charged with an assault and battery, alleged to have been committed upon the person of one Joseph Bowers.

The first and only witness examined was one Franklin Simmons, who is sometimes called Bowlegged Frank, from a personal peculiarity he possesses. He is about sixteen years old, and a very ugly customer to look at. "Squire Smith was particular that his lips should kiss the book when he swore him, and said something about mental reservations. But we apprehended nothing of that sort."

"What," said the Squire, "do you know about this matter?"

"A thunderin' sight," responded Mr. Simmons.

"No strong language here," said the Squire with vehemence.

"The 'casion calls for it," replied the young gentleman; "but, however, I don't keer—I'll talk it out smooth like."

"You had better," said the Justice. "Now tell us particularly what you know about this affair."

"Why, Squire, please yer honor," began Mr. Simmons, "this here chap, Dye Moggs, he's a kinder bully covey in our line."

"Your line?" interrupted the Squire.

"Yes, our line of business," said Mr. Simmons.

"What do you?" asked the Squire.

"What do I?" said Simmons; "why I sets 'em up agin'."

"I set 'em up?" asked the Squire.

"Yes, I set 'em up agin' the pins, when the gentlemen knocks 'em down."

"Oh, you attend in a ten-pin alley," said the Justice. "Go on."

"That's where I was a goin'," said Simmons. "Well, Dye Moggs is one on 'em, and has his pins up afore a gentleman kin pick out the ball he wants. Consequently, Dye, he's looked up to."

"You're making your story too long," said the Squire.

"Stop a little," said Simmons; "stop a little, I'm jest getting to the end of it."

"To the first end then," said a little freckle-facted boy, who was cuffed out of the office instanter.

"No, to the 'tother end," said witness. "Dye's looked up to, and we generally don't contradict him none. So, when a chap does contradict him, he's got to take the consequence."

"Well, you have laid down the law,—now let us have the facts," said the Squire.

"I'm getting at 'em, sir. So, when Joe Bowers gets his gab back to Dye, Dye he slaps him over, that's all." And the witness was hastening out of the office, evidently confident that he had settled the whole matter, when officer Handy took him by the nape of the neck and sent him back with a run.

"Come back here and explain yourself," said the Squire. "What do you mean by slapping over?"

"Why that's what I mean," said Simmons. "He slaps him head-over-heels."

"Did he strike him with his open hand?" asked the Squire.

"No, with his shut-up fist," said the witness. "Then it was a blow," said the Squire, "not a slap."

"Well, then, he blowed him over," said the witness, with a chuckle, in which several others joined.

"Now, tell me," said the Squire, "what he slapped or knocked him over for?"

"Cause," said the witness, "when Joe Bowers he wanted to borrow his noosepaw, and Dye told him to take one himself, Joe sassed Dye."

"That is telling the story properly," said the Squire. "Now, young gentlemen, are you very anxious to go up before the criminal court?"

"I ain't," said Dionysius Moggs.

"Nor I neither," said Joe Bowers; "nor I wouldn't a-come here if it hadn't a-ben as if he 'tucked me for nothin'."

"Nothing!" exclaimed the Squire with emotion. "What, sir, is it nothing to insult a man? No honest man will loan out his newspaper. He would as soon think of carrying you and your horse in his arms through a turnpike gate. Borrow a man's newspaper! you might as well think of spanning a man's lot of ground with a high arch, and claiming the right to build over it, because the abutments rest on your own lands. Borrow a newspaper! Why, sir, you task a man to connive with you at cheating the publisher. Sir, no provocation can justify an assault; but if any could, this would be the one."

"Well, Squire," said Bowers, "I didn't look at the subject in this light my own self; but I reckon you got the right hang of it. So, if it's agreeable all round, I'll jest go half the expenses in this here case, and 'scribe for a noosepaw for myself—the American Telegraph, for instance."

"Good as old wheat!" exclaimed Mr. Dionysius Moggs. "I'll go 'tother half churfully, and no grudges. Let me shake your stealers, Joe."

"Good!" exclaimed the Squire, and "good!" responded the crowd, as the two young gentlemen shook hands together. And sure enough, we have written in legible characters upon our route-book the very respectable name of Jo. Bowers.

INQUEST.—Nace Snowden, 40 years old, and intemperate, a slave of Miss M'Pherson, of Prince George county, Maryland, died this morning from injuries sustained by a fall into the canal on Sunday night. An inquest was held at his home on the Island, by Thomas Woodward, esq., Coroner, and a verdict rendered in accordance with these facts.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Charles Brantz, alias Bentz, was this morning found guilty of perjury in a certain land-warrant case.

STEALING.—James T. Barclay, a young man aged about twenty-five years, was arrested yesterday by that vigilant police officer, William Martin, of the fourth ward, charged with stealing a cloak, the property of Jacob F. King, which he afterwards disposed of to Mr. Urmuhle, tailor, of 7th street, for the sum of three dollars. He was promptly committed to jail by Justice Donn, to take his trial at the next term of the criminal court.

Georgetown.
WORDS OF ENCOURAGEMENT.—A friend, by whom we are proud to be praised, in writing to us this morning, says:

"Your handsome little paper punctually made its appearance yesterday evening, and I congratulate you upon the good feeling with which it has been received by a number of our most respectable citizens, by whom I have heard it spoken of. Such a Journal has long been needed in this community, and I am sanguine of your success. We of this particular section of the District have for many years been without a Journal to advocate our local interests in any thing like a becoming manner, and we shall hold you to your promise to chronicle all matters in regard to Georgetown, which may be of interest to the public at large. Our business men are as thriving as any in the country, and as liberal too; and I am sure that if you will only remember them, they will be sure to remember you."

CHRIST'S CHURCH, GEORGETOWN.—We are informed that the newly-elected Rector of this Church—the Rev. Mr. CALDWELL—has entered with great zeal upon this field of ministerial labor, and that since his advent the congregation has increased in numbers. He is said to be a man of very superior ability, learned in the lore of Scripture, and eloquent to an uncommon degree.

Alexandria.
MESSRS. EDITORS: Business in our good old town has taken a spring which infuses life and animation throughout the community. Arrivals of large quantities of coal from the great "Cumberland Mines," the receipt of our full supplies of spring goods, and the commencement of the great "fishing business" may be mentioned, among other things, as the cause of our busy times.

I notice several arrivals this morning of fresh shad from various landings below, which were readily sold at $15 per hundred. Herring are selling at $15 per thousand. Fresh arrivals will, however, reduce these routes, and bring the price within reach of all.

I congratulate you upon the first appearance of your yesterday's paper, and would say, Success to your enterprise, and to trade in all its branches, both in your city and our own. S.
